BERLIN, Feb. 17.—Indignant Germany lodged a strong written protest with Norway today over grounding of the German prison ship Altmark in Norwegian territorial waters by two British destroyers.

Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop sent the note of protest to Oslo as soon as complete details of the incident were received in Berlin. It was announced that four German sailors had been killed and five wounded when the British warships sent the Altmark aground in Josing Fjord within view of units of the Norwegian navy.

Von Ribbentrop promptly announced to the press that the protest was the sharpest made to any neutral country since the war began. He made clear that in addition Germany would charge Great Britain with flagrant violation of the international code governing sea warfare.

OSLO, Feb. 17.—The Norwegian government today protested "most strongly and emphatically" to Great Britain regarding action of two British destroyers in seizing between 300 and 400 British prisoners aboard the German Steamer Altmark in Josing Fjord.

The protest was termed a "flagrant violation" of Norwegian territorial waters by the Oslo press.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: At 1:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m. E.S.T.), it was stated in London that no protest from Norway had been received. The Norwegian legation in London, however, confirmed receipt of instructions to make representations, but spokesmen declined to acknowledge truth of rumors that Norway was demanding return of the prisoners with full compensation to German for loss of the Altmark.)

PA NEWG OBSERVES

During the past few days, the piles of snow on either side of the sidewalks have furnished much amusement to the children. They have been playing "follow the leader" and among the stunts was jumping into piles of snow, with the others following suit. "Grown-ups" do not see any sense in it.

Weather conditions of the past week have been conducive to development of huge icicles. Some that are whoppers are to be noted about the city. There may be some real danger from falling icicles in some parts of the city, so pedestrians should have a care.

Motorists who have had occasion to get around much during the past two days are experiencing difficulty from ice, which accumulates under fenders and on the running gear underneath the car. Many have complained of their brakes freezing up, locking so tightly that the car cannot be operated in some cases.

Believe Taft Has Most Delegates Pledged To Date

Dewey And Vandenberg Are Running Close Behind In Delegate Contest

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Republican leaders, after voting for a June 24 national convention in Philadelphia, today predicted the most wide-open race in the party's history for the G. O. P. Presidential nomination.

While Republican national committee members insisted that the choice of Philadelphia at their meeting yesterday had no political significance, they believed that Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio had the most delegates pledged to date, with District Attorney Thomas Dewey of New York and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, running close behind.

One party leader said, however, that he doubted whether any of the three had 200 delegates he could absolutely command. It was voted at the meeting yesterday to allow 1,000 delegates at the convention. As a result there was a big bloc of delegates still open, including those who will vote for "favorite sons" on the first ballot. Because of that, the most lively voting in convention history was in prospect at Philadelphia.

In a statement today, County Commissioner Joseph F. Travers sets forth a number of motivating influences back of the dissension which has been apparent in the Democratic party in this county.

HELSINKI, Feb. 17.—Fighting with their backs to the main wall of the Mannerheim line, Finns today planned a dramatic 11th hour appeal to the western democracies to have the republic with destruction.

With practically the whole first line of defense in Russian hands and the city of Viborg threatened, Finland's government arranged, it was understood, to send Premier Risto Ryti and Foreign Minister V. A. Tanner to London today or tomorrow.

Pointing to the imminent collapse of Finland's astounding defense, the statesmen will ask for immediate military aid from Britain and France.

The decision of Ryti and Tanner to fly to London came after a similar trip to Stockholm, where they pleaded in vain for outright assistance by Sweden.

Using at least seven divisions—about 140,000 men—in direct combat, with the aid of a vast array of 700 tanks, the Russians today concentrated their attempts to break the main Mannerheim wall at two points—Summa and the Leningrad-Viborg railroad on the western side of the Carelian Isthmus.

Report Summa Entered
Some accounts said the Russians already were in the town of Summa, which was practically levelled by constant artillery fire. But the Finns insisted that all the might of the Red army had failed to wrest the key town from them.

The deepest point reached by the Russians was believed to be about five miles inside the outer defenses of the Mannerheim line.

A great pall of smoke hung over the city.

EXPECT GARNER'S
NAME ON BALLOT

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 17.—The entrance of President Roosevelt's name in the Pennsylvania preferential primary today brought prospects of a primary race between the president and vice-president John Nance Garner.

The announcement that Mr. Roosevelt's name will appear upon the April 23 ballot was made by Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence. Pennsylvania law does not require the president's consent as Garner has already entered the Wisconsin and Illinois primaries where the president's name was also entered by friends. It was thought likely that he would oppose a third term for the president in the Pennsylvania election.

Lawrence's statement, issued last yesterday at Harrisburg by a Democratic state committee spokesman, said:

"The state Democratic committee is preparing to circulate nominating petitions in the various counties which will place the president's name on the April 23 primary ballot."

This action, it was added, was in conformity with that taken by the committee at its February 3 meeting when it unanimously went on record for a third term for the president.

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 17.—Postmaster General James A. Farley today set July 15 as the date for the opening of the national Democratic convention in Chicago.

The date set is three weeks after the Republicans convene in Philadelphia, June 24, to nominate their candidate for the presidency.

Postmaster General Farley announced the date of the Democratic meeting at a press conference this morning in Miami, where he is vacationing.

At their recent meeting in Washington, the Democratic national committee picked Chicago as the scene of their nominating convention, but they designated to Postmaster General Farley, who is also chairman of the committee, the authority to pick the date for the meeting.

The postmaster general delayed picking a date for the convention until after the Republicans had picked their date. The GOP national committee yesterday decided to convene June 24.

The "ambassadors of peace" were Sumner Welles, under-secretary of state, who was extremely reticent concerning his forthcoming visits to the chancelleries of European belligerents, and Myron Taylor, former board chairman of United States Steel Corp., whom the president has named his special envoy to the Vatican.

Taylor, more communicative than Welles, said just before the S. S. Rex sailed that every avenue would be explored that might lead to "re-establishment of peace upon the foundation of freedom and independence for all nations."

Garner Enters California Primary

Candidacy Of Roosevelt Hit

Garner's Entry May Prove Stumbling Block To Third Term Move

ENTER ROOSEVELT IN PENNSYLVANIA

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Entry of Vice President John Nance Garner into the California Presidential primary provoked speculation today whether it might prove a stumbling block in the drive of New Dealers to nominate President Roosevelt for a third term.

The President's friends cannot enter his name in the California primary, under state law, without his specific consent. Democrats generally believe Garner will capture the state's 44 delegates unless the President makes a formal entry against him.

Enter Roosevelt in Pennsylvania

The President's unofficial, unannounced, third-term campaign meanwhile gained headway as Pennsylvania Democrats announced they would enter his name in the Keystone State primary. Pennsylvania law does not require Mr. Roosevelt's consent. Under like circumstances, the President's name already has been entered in the New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Illinois and Nebraska primaries. It is to be entered in Oregon, too.

Garner already has tossed his hat into the Wisconsin and Illinois primaries, where he runs against the President. The Texan may also cross swords with the President in Nebraska, Oregon and Pennsylvania.

The California race holds great significance. Democrats recall that Garner delegations from Texas and California in the 1932 Chicago convention swung the nomination to Franklin D. Roosevelt and blocked renomination of Alfred E. Smith, the party's 1928 nominee. It would be a curious trick of destiny if Garner delegations from the same two states in the 1940 Chicago convention would swing the nomination to somebody else and block the third term renomination of Mr. Roosevelt.

BRITISH NAVY FREES CAPTIVES ON NAZI SHIP

ceived in London from Oslo that an unidentified German steamer, believed to be the Baldur, was burning off Lista, outside Norwegian territorial waters.

"It was not known whether the fire was the result of shots or scuttling," a Reuter dispatch said, adding that the vessel had been pursued by British warships.

While the men rescued from the Almark were on their way to Leith, Scotland, where a tremendous popular reception awaited them, Nazi Germany lodged a stern protest with Norway over permitting British violation of her neutrality, and instructions to make similar representations to Great Britain were received by the Norwegian legation from Oslo.

Unconfirmed reports said that Norway was demanding "compensation and satisfaction" for Germany, as well as return of the liberated men. The British admiralty stood its ground, however, making no secret of the fact that direct orders had been given to invade Norwegian waters to rescue the seamen from what the British press described as "an armed Nazi hell-ship."

"Packed with Dynamite"

Neutral observers in London agreed that the Almark case was "packed with dynamite," although there were no official indications of how far Germany intended to go in demanding that Norway punish Britain for her admitted disregard of international law.

British spokesmen took the attitude that Norwegian waters cannot be made a channel for unneutral passage of German war supplies and German war prisoners, even if ships have to be grounded and boarded and their decks stained with blood.

Announcing the capture, the British admiralty told of a relentless hunt to track down the Almark and save the men from "grievous hardships and severities" which previously had led some of the Almark's prisoners to term her a "hell ship."

From Six British Vessels

The German craft, which the British charged bore concealed weapons, carried the ordinary seamen from six British merchant vessels sunk in the adventurous career of the Admiral Graf Spee before the German pocket battleship was scuttled in Montevideo harbor.

Instructions for the entrance into the Norwegian fjord came directly from the admiralty in London, the orders disregarding permission by Norwegian authorities for the Almark to proceed through Norwegian territorial waters.

(Confirmation that the Almark was sent aground, plus the fact that shots apparently were exchanged during the capture, may explain Copenhagen reports today of a large sea battle off the west coast of Norway. These reports said a German ship of 10,000 to 15,000 tons was "sunk or forced aground.")

Land Liberated Men

Leith, Scotland, Feb. 17.—The British destroyer Cossack, victor over the German steamer Almark in the battle of Jostedal, arrived at Leith at 3:40 p. m. today (10:40 a. m., E. S. T.) with between 300 and 400 British seamen liberated from the prison ship, and a number of German captives.

Huge crowds cheered as the Almark captives disembarked. Many of them were taken away in ambulances and buses.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 17.—The refusal of Col. F. C. Harrington, national WPA administrator, to meet with him in an open conference at Washington to discuss WPA affairs today left Gov. Arthur H. James undeterred in his determination to "present Pennsylvania's case."

It was learned that the WPA administrator was agreeable to a private conference, with the minutes of the meeting to be made available later to the public, but was opposed to an open gathering for fear it would deteriorate into a political discussion.

Started Yesterday

Today's battle apparently was a continuation of the fight reported yesterday, when residents of the west coast of Norway in the Jeddereen section reported the sound of heavy gunfire.

It was in the Jeddereen area that the warship was said to have been sunk or beached today.

Linked to the battle was the incident yesterday in which Norwegian warships, according to accounts received here, kept the British Destroyer Intrepid from making off with the German Steamer Almark.

From Mrs. Kwalski's mother, Mrs. Bessie Yorkow, police learned of the tragic quarrel that preceded the couple's separation.

"Joseph had been drinking heavily and beat my daughter," said the mother. "Last Saturday he beat her with a lead pipe wrapped in newspapers. She brought the children here, but that night he came in while we were away and took them from her."

"My daughter went to the municipal court and he was to appear there Thursday. He didn't come. That afternoon, she went to the house with a policeman. He held the children up to her at the window, but he wouldn't open the door," concluded Mrs. Yorkow.

Estimates For 1940

The estimated expenditures for 1940 in the general fund are $482,924.34. The estimated revenues plus cash on hand amount to $662,008.80. For institutional purposes the estimated expenditures are $124,837.09. The estimated revenues and cash on hand is $321,478.69.

If the estimates go through as they are set there will be a balance in the treasury at the end of the year. The commissioners felt it was better to finish with a substantial balance than to cut the levy still more and have a bare treasury at the beginning of the next year.

FACE-SAVING STRATEGY BY JAPAN

THE Japanese Army's proclamation announcing an end to offensive action in China and calling on Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to surrender has all the earmarks of a face-saving effort, to disguise the fact that Tokio's conquering march is stalled.

Since the Hankow and Canton victories in the fall of 1938 the Japanese war machine has made no impressive advances. The Army has won control of China's coastline and most of her industrial wealth. But it has failed to attain complete domination of China, and its driving power appears to have run down.

The finality of the decision indicated by the Army proclamation is, in the light of Japanese evasion and subtlety, of course open to question. But it should be remembered that in addition to present difficulties in China, Japan faces the possibility of the loss of essential war supplies from an America fed up with being a party to heartless aggression in the Far East.

As for Chiang Kai-shek, it is hardly likely that he or any other Chinese leader could rally, in the near future, sufficient military strength to expel the invaders. But even if Japan's brutal war against China were now to end on the status quo something would have been gained for humanity.

MORALITY ON PLAYING FIELD

Competition in intercollegiate athletics, according to Tad Wieman, head coach of the Princeton University football team, teaches young men "to win causes without crossing the line of honesty and integrity."

And in that bit of ethical interpretation is condensed quite a rebuff to critics who have been inveighing against competitive sports for one reason or another.

To be sure, college football isn't perfect. It suffers from abuse and undue inflation in some quarters. But, on the whole, Tad Wieman's defense of competition on the playing field is well founded. Virtues inculcated under fire by adherence to a code of real sportsmanship are rather certain to be carried through life by impressionable youths who have learned the all-important lesson of facing strenuous opposition in a determined yet honorable way.

TRADE WAR IN THE AIR

A delegation is in the United States from Scandinavia for preliminary discussions of a new transoceanic airline, probably to follow the Arctic Circle between the U. S. and Northern Europe. The delegates' visit is a reminder that the virtual monopoly of air traffic over the North Atlantic now enjoyed by Uncle Sam will soon be seriously challenged.

French interests have already conducted an experimental sub-sonic flight across the ocean, making the long journey at an average altitude of 24,600 feet in a specially equipped plane. England is planning regular airmail and passenger service to Canada. Italy now operates a service between Rome and Rio de Janeiro. Spain is reported to be planning a trans-Atlantic line.

All this goes on in spite of war in Europe. Inauguration of some of these services will not wait until the war is over, but will be part of another war, already under way, for commercial advantages in the rapidly changing set-up of world trade. And in this war, as well as in those being fought on land and sea, the coming of spring is likely to bring swift and dramatic developments.

SELF-LIGHTING ROADS

People interested in advertising, or in traffic safety, or in invention for its own sake, may take notice of a three-purpose billboard—originating in Minneapolis. It automatically displays a roadside advertisement, warns the driver that he is approaching an intersection and tells him how fast he is driving, if it's thirty miles an hour or more.

Mirrors may have something to do with it, but it's done mainly with magnets buried in the road. They automatically turn on the illumination, compute the speed and flash the speed warning.

It seems to follow that if this kind of thing can be done for business purposes, it can also be done without commercialism, as a public service to motorists. Not only could lights be made to flash out automatically at any crossing or danger point, but highways could be illuminated by a "ripple" system, the lights automatically flashing on to light up the road for a few hundred feet ahead of the driver and turning off as he passed.

SOMETHING ABOUT HOLIDAYS

Grandparents of the present generation did not think a great deal about holidays. They had rather few of them. In many localities Christmas and New Year's were not always observed. Memorial Day had not yet come. Fourth of July brought a good deal of noise, but many a boy can recall how his dad required him to work on the nation's birthday.

It was in the midst of haying season, and the future needs of the cattle and horses made it necessary to fill the barn. The boy nursed bitterness in his heart as he trod the field.

Today the world is keen on its holidays and never seems to get enough of them. Business men sometimes grumble that holidays reduce work and interrupt the volume of trade. But if all shops close, folk will probably buy just as much in the course of a year.

Holidays were proclaimed theoretically to observe some great patriotic or religious event. Now most people seem to regard them as days when they can spin the car, hear the crack of the baseball, tempt the fish to leave their deep and haunted pools, and do whatever their fancy says. A holiday crowd is a pretty sight, with the women in the bright clothes of modern times, and the men proudly showing off their skill in sports and pastimes.

For those who observe a holiday with judgment, it brings them back to work with pleasant memories that last through many days of ordinary routine.

The registrar of motor vehicles in Boston gives this advice (which is regarded as pretty good). "Drive with both arms or hug with both arms."

The 200-inch eye at Mount Paloma, Calif., is receiving its final polishing, but it may be too much to hope that the scientists who use it will be able to see a way out of the fix we're in.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TRAINING CHILD IN CONSERVATION

In the United States we are growing conservation-conscious. What meaning has this for our family and children?

Interest in the conservation of soil, forest, stream, wild life and other natural resources involves the problems of food supply and human health, including mental health. Then there arises the problem of social responsibility: "Am I my brother's keeper?"

At the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, at Columbus, there was a round table on "Education for Conservation." This problem of social responsibility kept coming up, and your reporter insisted that the child and his family are the most important items in our natural resources—health, physical, mental, moral (in the widest sense). To this there seemed to be agreement and an understanding that a similar round-table next year would embrace this field.

Responsibility in Family
Since that meeting I have been thinking of this problem of social responsibility in relation to responsibility of the child in the family. In the negative sense, that he learn to keep from doing what will infringe upon the rights and possessions of others; in the positive sense, that he further the welfare and happiness of others.

It is human conservation that we talk about when we consider home citizenship in its widest sense. How can we hope to cultivate a wholesome attitude toward those natural resources not immediately in the child's environment until we can lead him to a similar attitude toward the public buildings, parks and other spaces which belong to the community in which he lives? And how can we cultivate a wholesome attitude in the child toward such possessions of the public until he learns at home and in his neighborhood to respect the rights and possessions of others there?

Personal Sacrifices
How can we hope to induce this child, as he grows up, to choose to make personal sacrifices for the larger social good, in terms of helping to conserve the natural resources, until he has learned to make personal sacrifices in his own environment?

In the home we parents have the problem of cultivating in the growing child, from babyhood, some basic inhibitions so as to conserve his life and the lives of others; also the possessions of others. In addition, we have the problem of cultivating in him a desire to co-operate with others in his home, and to share in the duties and responsibilities for the common good of the family. It means that the growing child will need constantly to learn not to do some things he would like to do, and to do some things he would not like to do.

To this end we parents shall try to make painful what we never want the child to do and pleasant what we want him always to do. If we are to get far in education for conservation of our natural resources, material or human, we will have to begin at the crib.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. My sister says she is glad her 19-year-old boy has shown no interest in girls, that since he is always home they need have no worries about him. I tell her she has more reason to worry because he is always home and avoids the girls. Who is right?

A. Probably you are. At the present rate, this lad faces painful loneliness and feelings of inferiority later, if not now. Normally, the adolescent likes to mingle frequently with a number of boys and girls. That lad who begins going with girls unusually late may feel so timid about it as to "fall hard" for someone his inferior. The same holds true with girls, as a rule.

Q. We say in the United States of the bride or groom who "has the edge in respect of education, money, or social standing that he married well." Is it true?

A. The one who seems to gain "the edge" in marriage usually loses it, being destined thereafter, almost sure, to feel inferior and act defensively.

Q. What is a good way to train a child to be disobedient?

A. Make many commands and repeat them often.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

NO "COMING OUT"

Many of England's dotting mothers and fathers are dismayed. War's blackout has even cast its shadow on the Royal Courts which will be abandoned. As a result nearly a thousand seventeen and eighteen year old girls, scheduled to come out this season, will have to forego the customary honor of being presented at court.

Having daughter presented to Their Majesties an honor, be it noted, enthusiastically sought for their debutante daughters by many American mothers—like many other harmless vanities of the socially elect, is a custom that has ever had the support of the butcher, baker and candlestick-maker.

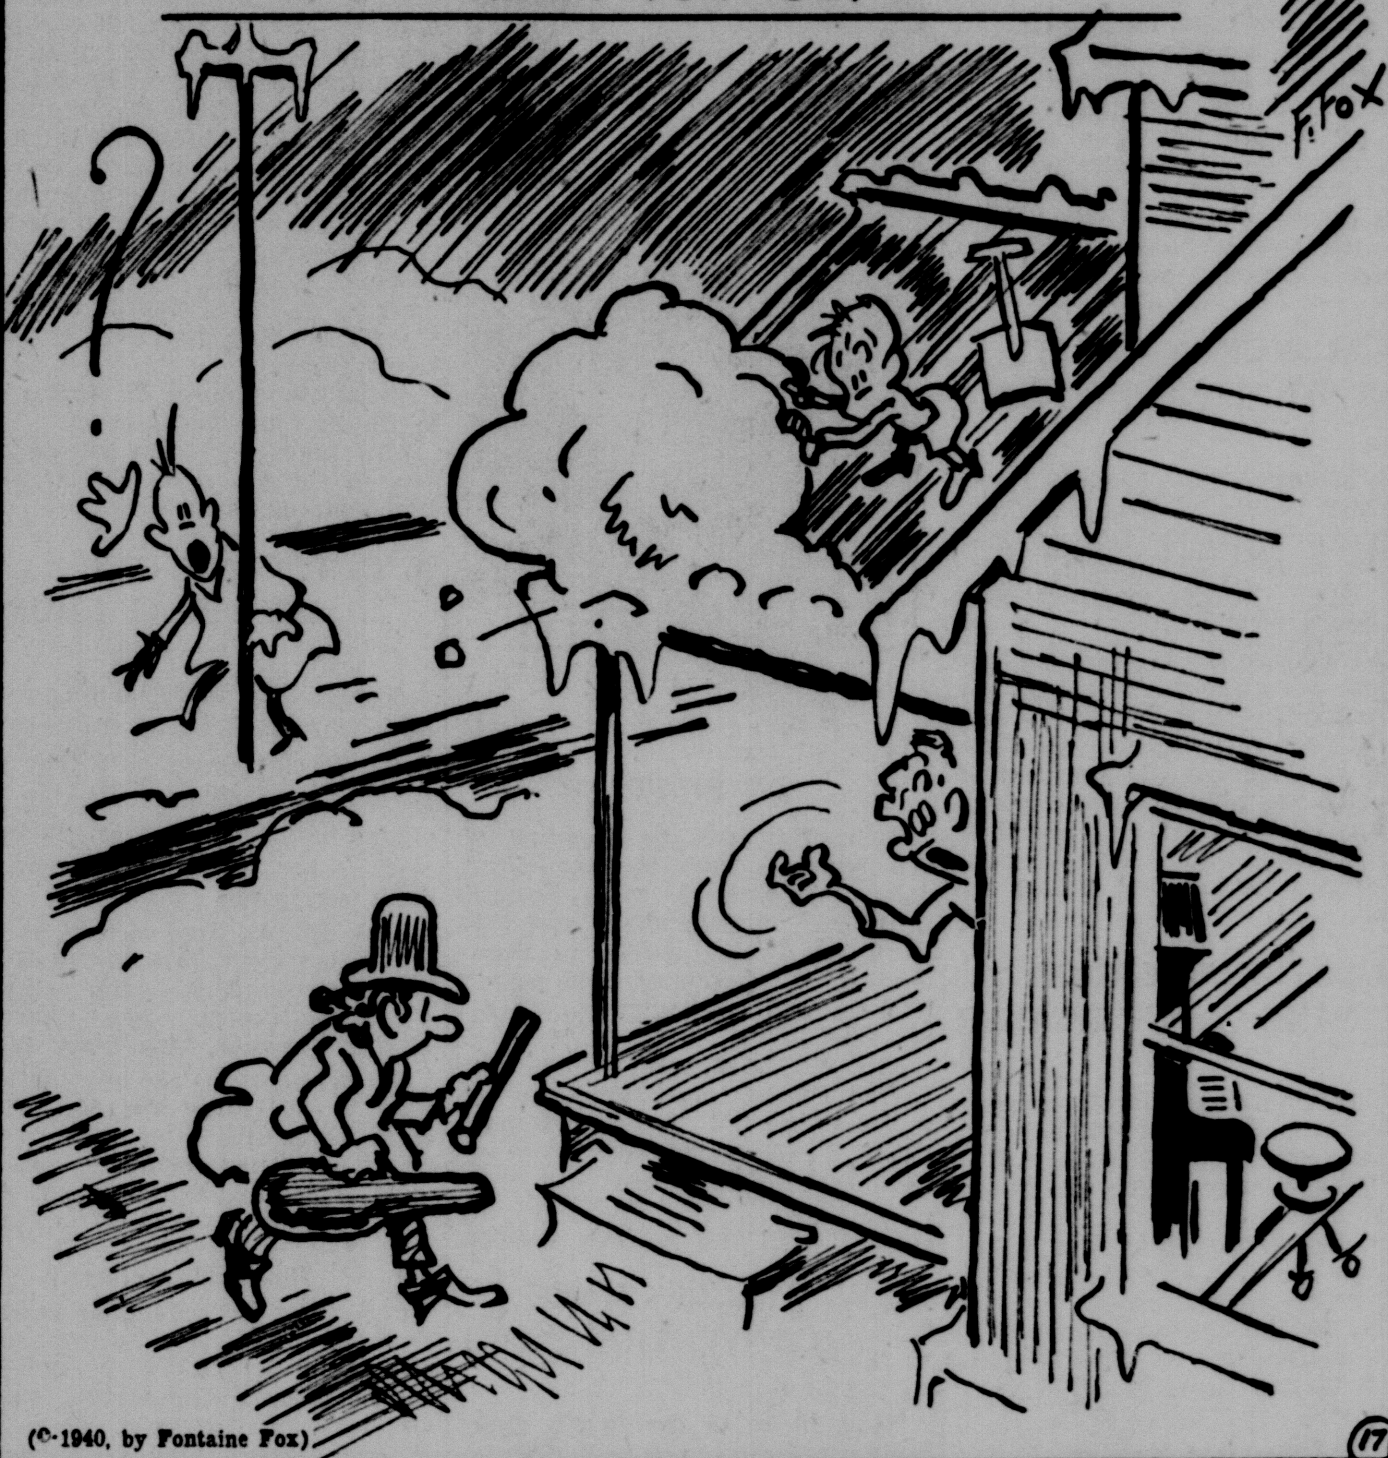

Milliners, tradesmen and "social advisers" who arrange introductions and instruct their clients in court etiquette, do a three-million-dollar business during London's "coming out" season every year. But this year, for once, fathers will have their innings. They stand to save $500 to $5000 apiece as a result of the blackout of court presentations. And with Britain's income taxes in the neighborhood of thirty-seven per cent, they'll need it!

In time of stupendously mounting war debts, there's no time for war gebs!

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:38. Sun rises tomorrow 6:51.

Life for Leland Kelly, of West Chester, Pa., is going to be almost useless. He testified at a divorce court hearing that he earns $20 a month, working on his father's farm, and the judge ordered him to pay $18 of that for the support of his two children. That bird would have been better off if he had stayed married. He might have been able to have gotten his wife a job and she could have helped to support him.

In a lot of offices around this town can be found stenographers who know more about the business of the place than the men who hire them.

To judge the severity of hard times in earlier periods, measure the queerness of the cranks who became leaders.

Neither party has a monopoly of incompetence and corruption. Either begins to smell if it isn't kicked outdoors every so often.

According to a U. S. Rear Admiral a ship is called a she because it costs so much to keep one in paint and powder. Whoopee!

NO CLOCK WATCHER
Hard-Boiled One—"Ain't you one of them guys who drops their tools and beats it as soon as the whistle blows?"

Scrambled One—Not me; After I put my tools away, I usually wait about five minutes for the whistle.

A Methodist Bishop refers to Stalin as a tyrant. We imagine this is going to cause Josef to hang his head in shame.

A Salt Lake City stenographer advertising for a job referred to herself as "incompetent and unoriginal" and within a few hours after the ad had appeared had six offers of jobs. It certainly pays to tell the truth in advertising.

Europe which has been shivering through the severest winter in many years fears a flood if a sudden thaw occurs and according to the Office Grouch he hopes it occurs in Germany and Russia. Funny how folks like these aggressor nations.

Calling it the Christian Front wasn't smart. People have learned to regard a front as a pretty cover for something dirty.

If deliberately and treacherously wrecking the plant is sabotage what is when trusted officials do the same thing to a city?

Next to a graveyard at night, the loneliest looking thing is the dark and empty home of your neighbor when they are away for six months.

"The fearful thing about a skid" says an auto journal "is its brief duration." How about the one that Europe has been in for the past several years.

Using sad endings to make movies true to life is all right, but they carry realism too far when they give us stars who aren't much to look at.

"The march of dimes" was typical of America. Everybody heartily approved, but only the few could overcome their inertia and act.

It's a little learning that is dangerous. The ones who don't worry about their innards are doctors and those who don't know how anything works.

An anthropologist asserts that the human face changes in pattern as it gets older the mouth becomes wider the ears larger, and the nose wider and longer. Just think of what monstrosities some cute little babies are doomed to grow into.

The Japanese this month celebrated their 2600th birthday as a nation we were informing the Girl Next Door and she said that by this time one would think they would know better.

GETTING MONEY'S WORTH
"Conductor will you help me off the train?"

"Sure."
"You see I'm stout and have to get off train backwards. The porter thinks I'm getting on and gives me a shove back on again. I'm five stations past my destination now."

The toy hat style may be revived, a fashion item announces. They probably will become so small that when a woman is fashionably dressed, she will be bare-headed.

Americanism: Pitying foreigners who can't think for themselves; criticizing a President's good works because he isn't in our party, or praising his mistakes because he is.

Good Taste

I know a middle-aged man who is phenomenally popular with youngsters in their teens. His nieces and nephews of that age, also their friends, insist that he attend their parties and when they have secrets or problems he is the first recipient. Today I asked him the secret of this popularity. He said: "When I was their age I was afraid of my parents, my uncles, my aunts. One of the tragedies of my life resulted from penance I had to endure when, at the age of 13, an uncle caught me smoking cigarettes at the railway station. So I resolved that when I grew up I would establish with the youthful generation the reputation of being a good sport who would never betray their peccadilloes. Thus I grew up to be a confessor in whom they confided their sins and their griefs. Instead of scolding them I always advise them just as an older boy would advise a younger boy or girl. They know absolutely that no matter what they do I can be trusted as implicitly as the broadest-thinker, the most up-to-the-minute ultra-modernist of their crowd."

Readers' Questions Answered
Dear Miss Markel: Kindly give me a list of the items that make up a girl's trousseau...not household effects, but wearing apparel.—Helen.

Answer: A generation ago, every bride was supposed to bring to her husband's house sufficient clothes in her trousseau to last for at least two years. But modern modes change so rapidly that this rule has been disregarded. You should, however, have at least a dozen or better still, two dozen pieces of each item of lingerie and a sufficient number of outer garments to last for about a year. Many modern brides are financially independent of their husbands. Those with salaries of their own are laws unto themselves.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope.

NO BLOOD KIN
Most of the Jones' Sunday motor trip had been marred by a violent quarrel. On their homeward journey they passed a pasture field, just as a donkey brayed long and loud.
"Is that a relative of yours?" he asked spitefully.
"Only by marriage, dear" she replied sweetly.

Snob appeal isn't new. The old book agent said: "We are offering this to a few of the leading families."

The wonder is that kids ever obey rules. If you have no part in making rules that are forced on you only fear makes you honor them.

We're glad Europeans think we are interested in the war only as entertainment. Maybe they'll stop it just to spite us.

You can influence people, too. One sincere letter from a voter affects a Congressman more than a wagon load of propaganda.

A speaker makes mistakes, but he is safe from one pitfall that gets writers. There is no way to sound a hyphen.

THAT SOMETHING CALLED LOVE
Love is a balm.
Love is a hurt.
Love may be kind.
And love can be cruel.

Love is a sword.

Quaint of design.
Fearfully made.
Love is a dagger.
A fairy wand.
Divining rod.
Or a soothsayer's bond.
Love is a joker.
Love is a wag.
A winged Pegasus.
Or a footstep nag.

Love is abstract.
It may only live.
Thrive and prosper.
If both shall give.
Love must be earned.
To be enjoyed.
Otherwise, friend, you'll be better employed.
Sowing seeds.
Of a ranker kind.
If anything else.
Be in your mind.

Getting a public speech from London is instructive. We learn that sniffles and coughs over there sound just like ours.

Correct this sentence: "I've kissed plenty of girls" said he, "so I don't care how many fellows my bride has kissed."

Woman's emancipation actually began when she could hold six ounces of silk above her head, wiggle and be dressed.

This is the land of the free, reminds an editorial writer, where everyone has an equal chance to succeed. How about those seven other American league teams, not located in New York?

A political candidate was incensed at certain remarks which had been made about him in the leading paper of the town. He burst into the editorial room and exclaimed: "You are telling me about me in your paper and you know it."

"You have no cause for complaint said the editor coolly. "What would you do if we told the truth?"

"Lady, could yer gimme a quarter to get where my family is?"
"Certainly, my poor man, here's a quarter. Where is your family?"
"At de movies."

Office Grouch: "With all the cranks there are in this country, there is no reason why the universe should ever run down."

What's What At A Glance

Republican Strategy Divulged
New Deal Measures Win Approval
Administration Policy Attacked

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The Republicans don't want anybody to get the idea that they're opposed to any legitimate program for governmental relief of unemployment, for the support of the aged or for the otherwise needy, for farm help, for the making of opportunities for the incoming generation, and all that kind of thing. Congressman Joseph W. Martin, G. O. P. leader in the house of representatives, has been rubbing this notion in as vigorously as possible, on his recent speaking tour through the mid-west. He evidently realizes that it would be bad politics for his party to be advertised as favoring an abandonment of these and other New Deal socio-economic policies. What he does contend is that the New Deal has promoted them wastefully.

Well, How wastefully? Specific instances of this alleged wastefulness ought to be cited.

Case Of CCC Cited
The Republican national committee recognizes as much. It starts off with the Civilian Conservation Corps, a set-up in youth's behalf. The theory is that "kids" should be mobilized for reclamation work, thus being trained into first-class citizenship.

The Republican committee doesn't dispute the merits of the concept. However, it maintains that a lot of city youngsters don't care to be drafted for that kind of employment. It quotes figures to show that, in urban and semi-urban neighborhoods, boys don't join the CCC nearly as fast as recruits are desired.

"Why, then," queries the committee, "vote federal funds for, say, 100 CCC youths, with 25 vacancies on the list already?"

The critics haven't got around yet to other agencies, but that's an illustration. Their figures may be as reliable. However, such is their line of argument.

Their hope is, not that the administration has been altogether wrong in principle, but that it's overdone matters, at needless expense.

Gannett's Campaign
Few politicians take Publisher Gannett's campaign for the Republican presidential campaign very seriously.

But, politicians do take deep thought as to the origin of his aspirations. Their surmise is that this candidacy may have been inspired by Representative James W. Wadsworth of New York.

Wadsworth himself is semi-potential material. He's a very able contented on page seven.

THE DOUBTERS

"You can't!" they cried, when the early man
Decided to live to a higher plan.
"You can't!" they cried, "any further go!"
All has been learned man was meant to know."
And they sat them down, growing old and fat,
Ceaselessly walling "You can't do that!"

"You can't go faster than man can run!"
They used to cry till the trick was done,
And they shouted next as a matter of course:
"You can't go faster than man plus horse."

And later to this they changed the theme:
"You can't. The limit of power is steam."
"You can't!" They cried at each forward move,
"You can't shake man from his settled groove!"

But a few men dreamed and a few believed
And by and by was the dream achieved.
Still the doubters murmur: "That can't be done!"
But in spite of them all the world goes on.

A Grab For Power

Washington, Feb. 17. THE New York judge in whose hands the decision rests may have made his choice before this is published, but that will not make less pertinent the story of the struggle over the trusteeship of the gigantic Associated Gas and Electric Company. In several ways this is the most important thing that has happened in Washington in a long time.

THE facts speak for themselves. The Associated Gas and Electric Company, a billion-dollar corporation with a pay roll of $50,000,000 a year and 225,000 stockholders, has applied for a bankruptcy reorganization. One side contends that it is a solvent company forced into bankruptcy by the SEC and the refusal of Mr. Jones to make a loan except upon impossible conditions. The other side asserts that the company financial setup is incredibly complicated and that the bankruptcy petition is the voluntary move of its managers who saw its inevitability. Whatever the merits of this controversy, what has happened since the petition was filed is the really significant thing.

IMMEDIATELY following that first step, a movement, said by those in position to know to have originated with the Messrs. Tommy Corcoran and Bennie Cohen, was started, the purpose of which is to gain control of this corporation, the greatest public utility proposition in the country, for the New York group. On good authority it is said that the first suggestion was that the brilliant Mr. Corcoran himself be made the trustee and that this suggestion had the approval of the President. That happy thought lasted only three days. The obvious deductions knocked it out. For one thing, it would have seemed a brazen use of the Presidential power to provide Mr. Corcoran with a fat, juicy job at the expense of the stockholders of a corporation under the heel of a Government commission for whose creation Mr. Corcoran was largely responsible. For another, it would have been construed as proof that Mr. Roosevelt has no intention of running again. Mr. Corcoran being the chief engineer of the third-term machine. For another, it would exhibit the whole New Deal in a very sordid light.

THE Corcoran idea was dropped almost as quickly as it was conceived. There then followed the SEC drive. Just what thought that first is uncertain, but again credit is given to the Corcoran-Cohen firm. At any rate, the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Morgenthau, and the Attorney General, Mr. Jackson, who is exceedingly close to Mr. Corcoran, appealed to Judge Leibell to make the commission the trustee. This was a rather shocking proposition. It meant making the SEC the operator of a giant property in the case of which it was already acting as judge, jury, prosecutor and unscrambler under the death-sentence section of the Public Utility Act. Yet, to the surprise of its sponsors, Senator Wheeler and Representative Rayburn, authority for this was found in the law. That is not surprising when it is recalled that Mr. Corcoran and Mr. Cohen drew the original bill.

SENATOR WHEELER and Representative Rayburn at once emitted blasts against the proposal which, as Mr. David Lawrence points out, made it too hot for the Administration to hold. By a vote of 4 to 1, the commission informed the judge of its unwillingness to serve. It is stated in its behalf that the commission opposed the plan from its inception and that Secretary Morgenthau and Attorney General Jackson were so notified. Despite that fact, they persisted in urging the court to name the commission. However, like the Corcoran idea, which never got out in the open, the SEC idea is now out, but the people of the country ought to appreciate the extraordinary spectacle of the Secretary of the Treasury and the Attorney General of the United States bringing pressure on a Federal judge to appoint a political agency as trustee of a billion-dollar corporation, the only interest of the

Presbyterian Roll Call At First Church

Effort Being Made To Have Every Member Present At Sunday Morning Service

'ADVANCE PROGRAM' COMMITTEE LISTED

The special Lenten Church Advance Program to cover the six weeks' period leading up to Easter, will be emphasized tomorrow at the First Presbyterian church, Jefferson at East Falls.

The special effort has been designed to make religion a more vital force in the lives of the members of the First church congregation, according to Dr. John J. McIlvaine, minister and A. A. Webb, general chairman of the steering committee. The program is in line with the Lenten loyalty program being conducted in Shenango Presbytery and the New Castle city-wide go-to-church effort.

A "membership roll call service" will be observed at 11 o'clock Sunday morning when every member has been requested to be in attendance and to register his attendance by presenting a roll call card. Dr. McIlvaine will preach on the theme, "Strength for Life". A special feature of the service and Sunday school session will be the taking of motion pictures by Professor Biggs of Westminster College.

Over 10 First Presbyterian church women have participated in visitation of over 600 families of the congregation since Thursday morning, despite the storm, leaving the printed program outlining the special services during the weeks of Lent, the roll call cards, and especially inviting every person to endeavor to attend church tomorrow morning.

The six weeks' Advance Program as outlined includes: A Vesper service at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when the Welsh Congregational Men's Chorus will be guests; February 25, "Christian Education Sunday"; March 3, "Christian Womanhood Sunday"; March 10, "Christian Manhood Day"; March 17, "Personal Responsibility and Palm Sunday"; March 24, "Easter"; March 31, "Christian Testing Day".

Attend Church During Lent, Ministers Urge

The New Castle Ministerial Association and Catholic Clergy of New Castle, sponsors of a city-wide "let's go to church" campaign, urge that every church member, church officer, Sunday school member and Sunday school teacher or officer, be present at the regular worship services tomorrow, the second Sunday in Lent. The campaign, begun a short time ago, has produced results. The clergymen would like to see the attendance climb every Sunday, with a grand climax on Easter Day.

This is not a competitive, but a co-operative campaign. Attendance last Sunday, listed according to percentages of membership, was reported by the following churches this week, the campaign chairman, Dr. C. H. Heaton, states:

Loyalty Awards Will Be Made For Increase Campaign

Sunday School Attendance Campaign Winners Will Be Recognized

At the 102nd convention of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association which will be held at the Epworth Methodist church, New Castle, Thursday, June 13, 1940, the awards of the "Loyalty" increase campaign which started Sunday, February 4th and continues to and including Easter Sunday, March 24th, will be presented to the winners of the various groups.

There are four groups of New Castle Sunday schools, arranged according to average attendance during 1939, and outside of New Castle there are seven districts and each district participating will be considered as a group.

The figuring of the percentages for every group is a fairly simple matter, and every Sunday school participating has an equal chance. Every one in attendance during the campaign, over the 1939 average attendance, counts a point. Every one in attendance over the corresponding attendance of last year's campaign which started February 19th, counts a point. The total points for the eight Sundays of the campaign for each Sunday school will be added up and the total will be divided by the average attendance for 1939. This gives the percentage of gain.

The Lawrence County Sabbath School Association furnishes the plan and goals, the publicity, announces the winners and makes the awards. The individual Sunday schools must use their initiative to work out ways and means of securing new members and encouraging old members to attend more regularly. The campaign is really a method of taking inventory to see whether or not Sunday schools are making progress.

For the first two Sundays, some of the participating Sunday schools have made good strides. Others are getting organized and their plans put into operation, so that they may go forward for the remaining six Sundays.

Government in which is a five-million-dollar tax claim already secured as a prior lien on the property.

THE normal procedure in such matters is for the court to name as trustee the best qualified man put forward or desired by the stockholders and management. In this case the man happens to be Mr. John W. Hanes, recently resigned as Under Secretary of the Treasury and concededly qualified by character and experience for the job. No objection has been made to Mr. Hanes. It is difficult to see, if a competent and honest job is desired, how one could be. Yet the fact remains that at this writing the Administration is still bringing pressure upon the court to name a New Dealer as the trustee and sidetrack Mr. Hanes.

IT is a bold grasp for power by a small group of so-called "intellectual liberals" of the Administration. Naturally, those who favor national ownership of all public utilities are in sympathy. Control of this great corporation by a politically minded New Dealer, such as Mr. Corcoran or one of his selection, would certainly advance the national ownership movement a long step. It would have a chilling effect upon the whole business world and sure repercussions in Congress. Probably the publicity has busted the scheme. No adequate explanation of the Morgenthau-Jackson attitude in trying to appoint a Federal judge to a corporation solely in need of business brains has been given. Mr. Jackson's part in this is not as surprising as Mr. Morgenthau's, as the Attorney General is pretty far to the Left in his leanings. But Mr. Morgenthau has never before given any indication of natural ownership favor. Yet, here we find him lending himself to a plan which makes the national ownership boys throw their hats in the air. It is a very curious performance.

What he needs is advertising. Gannett is in a position to give him a good bit of it; he runs 10 newspapers.

Now, the political guess is that he's trying to put the publisher under obligations to him, with a view to 1944. If, by any accident, Frank should be nominated and elected, Jimmy would be the high man, next to him, in the Gannett administration. He probably wouldn't be, with Tom Dewey or any other Republican possibility. The theory is that what he really has in mind is his own future.

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

ACCIDENTS

One of the most disturbing experiences a doctor has to go through is to be called in to see a fine, healthy child who has been badly injured in an accident. I have had this experience many times in my practice, just as every country doctor has, and the more of these I attend, the more I am convinced that there ought to be more punishments for adult negligence.

I suppose nearly every person has a friend or an acquaintance who seems "allergic" to accidents. I know one such man and his continual moan is "Why does everything happen to me?" You know the kind of people I mean; the ones of whom you say: "My doesn't Jim have the worst luck."

I know that in my practice I get accustomed to having some patients figure in accidents over and over. Whenever I get an unexplained call to the Jones home, I say to myself as I gather my instruments: "What's young Johnny done to himself now?" And usually it is Johnny again, with a broken arm, or a sprained ankle, or a bad cut. Every now and then some little Johnny's career is cut off because he has an accident too serious for me to patch him up.

Well, I'm convinced that it isn't just bad luck that dogs these individuals who have all the accidents. I am sure that usually the trouble is with the individual himself. He just doesn't know how to take care of himself.

One of these accident-prone people isn't a good person to have around. In particular such a person is a bad one to have at the wheel of a car when you are a passenger.

I recall one young fellow who lived near me. Again and again, passengers in a car he was driving were brought in to my office suffering from injuries. I finally felt it my duty to talk to his father. I told him I thought there was something wrong with his boy. The father pooh-poohed the idea, he was sure his son was just full of youthful spirits. Nevertheless, I got the young fellow in the office and my observations made me sure his eyes were bad. I induced him to go with me to an eye specialist. He was suffering from a peculiar defect in his sight. The specialist was shocked when he heard that the boy drove at all.

If your child suffers a series of apparent "accidents", it just isn't coincidence. It isn't wise after even one mishap to tell yourself, "Well, it's done and I guess it can't be helped. It was just an accident." There is a cause behind every accident and getting to the bottom of it is a good idea. The next one may be fatal. Anyway, you won't want your child to grow up with careless habits.

Of course, every youngster is going to take plenty of tumbles in his life and healthy young bodies are well equipped to take them. But if your child is continually injuring himself, I think you should do a bit of investigating. See why he takes those falls and if it is a loose carpet, or a loose board, or a dark stairway, then correct the trouble. If it is none of these, then have his eyes examined, and give him a check-up mentally. Often these accidents are a warning of a mental upset which can be headed off if attended to at once.

Abe Stoner and his road men are busy opening up the roads that have been drifted full for a couple of days.

The friends and neighbors of Fern Kyle, who is in the Columbia hospital at Wilkesburg, are glad to learn that she is improving slowly.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Henry and children, Lusia and Billy, of Camp Phillips, Rose Shuler and James Duncan of New Castle, visited their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Smiley and family of Butler, Sunday evening.

The ice on the Slippery Rock creek started to go off Tuesday and gorged near Brush Run backing the water onto the road and all around the summer cottages. Large cakes of ice are also out on the road.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Carr and sons, Billy and Kenneth of New Castle, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Taylor and daughter Mary Margaret, of near Princeton were the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Wright and daughter, Adah, Sunday.

Heavy Rain May Cause Big Flood

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 17—Flood hazards may be created in Pennsylvania if rain follows on the trail of Wednesday's record-breaking snowfall, it was indicated Friday by state officials.

Maj. Gen. Edward Martin, head of the state's eight-department flood preparedness plan, declared that any rain on top of the thaw "might" put Pennsylvania in serious flood danger.

Secretary of Forests and Waters C. Albert Stewart supported Gen. Martin's contention, asserting that the snow "undoubtedly creates a hazard in the two main river sheds." He added that a "dangerous situation" might develop, depending on "how the water goes off."

Meanwhile, a fairly warm sun helped the state dig out of huge snowdrifts which crippled transportation all over the commonwealth, closing schools and drifting roads shut.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

A can of lye looks innocuous. But it is no plaything for a child. Hunger is the chief concern of infants.

They put things into their mouths as a natural gesture. Lye is a marshmallow-like, white substance.

It does not have a disagreeable odor. It looks good enough to eat, especially to babies.

When first taken into the mouth it does not burn. So it may be swallowed before the child senses danger.

Mothers should protect their infants against cans of lye. Lye should be put on the topmost shelf out of baby's reach.

An inquisitive baby, a can of lye, a tragic death.

All rural properties delinquent in their 1929 and 1930 taxes were sold by County Treasurer Earl R. Wimer on Friday. About half a dozen pieces were claimed by private individuals and the balance of the list went to the county commissioners.

The slump in dog licenses is marked the past week and thus far the total has not reached 5000. Only about half the dogs in the county are licensed and dog enforcement officer Howard McClure threatens to start arresting.

Either there are more candidates for congress and state senate than was anticipated or somebody is getting petition blanks just for fun. Whatever the reason the supply of blank petitions to be used for congress or the state senate has been exhausted in the office of William A. Eakin, chief clerk to the county commissioners and a new supply has been ordered.

Other petition blanks are going out slowly. Few county committee blanks have gone out and the probabilities are there will be a number of precincts where there are no candidates. The fifty cent filing fee seems to be the bar. There is no salary or fees connected with the job of being a county committeeman and folks apparently think it isn't worth half a dollar to serve.

'Champs' Parade In Arena Monday Night

Grimes Battles Tonti And Arkett Meets Spotti Here

MURRAY, MORAN AND YAROSZ BOYS TO BOX

Forty-eight hours remain until the Parade of Champions and Four-Star battles begin in The Arena, and beginning then at 8:30 p. m. and ending before 11 p. m., the time will be spent in not only sullying but ruining pugilistic reputations.

Sully Tonti, the Midland slugger, hopes to repeat and sully the reputation of Jack Grimes, Aliquippa, the "Henry Firpo" of the amateurs.

JOE YAROSZ

Having won the Diamond Belt 160-pound title he hopes to keep his belt unharmed.

Tonti handed a lacing to Paddy Grimes' son in their first encounter and believes he is capable of repeating Monday night. Realizing that he waded through middleweights rated higher than Tonti in his quest for the crown, Grimes is confident of winning.

The middleweight toga will not be the only title at stake. The other will be the Diamond Belt 147-pound crown. If Chuck Arkett is "on," shows a good eye for distance and doesn't "telegraph" his blows he has a chance of beating Spotti.

True it is that in the past Arkett has sometimes been "off" in his work, but Monday night he must do his best, otherwise Pete Spotti, the Cecil scrapper, will stretch him like a rag carpet. Spotti beat Sammy Secrete, a training pal, to win the title in Pittsburgh.

There'll be no swing music when Mike Wukas of Aliquippa tackles Jabemith Sammy Secrete. Wukas would like to score a wide win over the ex-champion. Sammy won his last scrap here by a last minute rally and the fans raved over the result as they departed from the hall.

There'll be lots of action when the southpaw Frankie Moran battles Benny Malone of Pittsburgh at 126.

Frankie is no one's push-over; not especially when he puts all the speed he owns into his feet. So far he has shown to advantage in ringcraft, hitting power and science.

The Evening's Evenin' will find three brothers in the ring on two different occasions, first when Tommy Yarosz, Monaca, fights Sonny Horne of Niles. Ex-Middleweight Champ Ted will aid Tommy and again when he helps Joey, another brother, who fights Jimmy Tabor of Miles at 126.

Flashy Billy Murray, who performed like a phantom when he cuffed Frankie Moran from P to M, will try to escape Nick Retardo's right and jab Nick's head back, not once but incessantly. Some fans believe that Murray's speed and science will defeat Nick's wallop and aggressiveness.

The curtain will be raised by Millo Donnell of Niles and Nick Lacasanda of Ellwood City and indications, because of the high caliber of the card, point to a banner crowd. Already the Jefferson A. C. has been laying away reservations for the amateur show Monday night.

Gersons Will Face Oil City Sunday

Dick Ahrens, 6 Feet 9 Inch Center, Will Appear Here Again

"Dick" Ahrens and his Oil City Hub-Oilers, Northwestern Pennsylvania champions, switch nets with the Gersons, Sunday afternoon on The Arena hardway.

Ahrens, 6 feet 9 inches in height, ranks as one of the tallest cagers in the country. The Oilers come here with a long list of triumphs over some of the smoothest aggressors in the district. Their latest victory was over the Ford City Fords, composed of last year's state high school crown holders, 54-30.

Following a week's rest, the locals are anxious to resume hoop activities. Petey Zingaro and Jack Hit-chens, who have been ill, have fully recovered and will see action tomorrow.

The Gersons today announced that the Sammy Angott Washington club was originally scheduled to play here. The game was canceled due to the fact that the Washington cagers have agreed to participate in a benefit game in their home town.

In the preliminary clash, the New Castle Boosters meet the George Smith passers of McKeesport. The prelim starts at 2:15 o'clock. The visitors have an array of classy hoopsters who formerly flaunted the colors of Duquesne High. Joe Proska, ex-Penn State ace, and Zelenik, ex-Pitt star, form part of the lineup.

In the semi-final windup of the show, a Finn relief card at public hall Fritz Zivic, of Pittsburgh won a technical knock out over Reno Fernandez of Dayton, but only after Tris Speaker, chairman of the Cleveland Boxing Commission, had warned him to stop pulling his punches.

Pulaskis-Giants Will Play Sunday

Sunday afternoon at the K. Pulaski Hall the K. Pulaski Big Five will try hard to halt the winning streak of 12 straight games that the Cozy Giants have established. This will be the main game. In the preliminary at 2:30 o'clock, the Gas Five meets the K. Pulaski Reserves.

The Oaklanders are confident of snapping the streak that the Giants have established. Captain Johnny Carik of the Giants, will have his strongest possible lineup available to try and keep the fine record intact. Carik will have such recognized stars as Maka Budai former K. Pulaski player in the lineup, also James "Shimmy" Balla former St. Michaels star, "Beans" Ballin, Chabak, Vignovich and Hen Duganski.

This should be one of the best games of the year at the Oakland floor.

Tonight at the K. Pulaski hall, the Pulaski Big Five meets the strong Natrona Ex-high stars. The Natrona team is made up of stars from New Kensington, Natrobe and Arnold. The K. P. Reserves meet the Ross All-Stars (Crusaders) in the first game at 7:30 o'clock.

Stock Market
Tone Is Strong
Gains Are Made By Some Of Leading Stocks During
MorningBy LESLIE GOULD
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The stock market showed a strong tone today under leadership of the steel shares. The list was firm at the start, and moved up later for gains running to 2 points in Bethlehem Steel. Trading was moderately active in the early dealings but quieted down later.

Other steel shares followed the rumour in Bethlehem. Gains running to a point and more were scored by U. S. Steel, Youngstown and Crucible. Belief the industry was nearing a turning point in production was a factor.

Auto shares were stronger also. General Motors advanced a point. Studebaker duplicated its high for the year.

Coppers were firmed up by reports of big buying by domestic and foreign consumers accompanied by rumors of a possible price advance after the recent markdowns. Gains were fractional.

Traction quieted down following announcement the city had enough deposits to put through unification with the B. M. T.

Westinghouse and DuPont advanced a point each. Elsewhere gains were the rule in rails, utilities, mail orders and rubbers.

elect a county chairman of the Democratic party by their vote or should all the registered Democrats of this county have a chance to directly vote for a county chairman.

The great bulk of the Democratic committee at a regularly called meeting decided to allow every Democratic voter a chance to help pick the county chairman. In accordance with their own rules, more than one-third signed a petition calling for a meeting. The new method of election was adopted. On appeal to the state committee it was ruled that at a meeting to be held on February 10, 1940, the problem was to be decided once for all. John Shaw agreed to accept the result of that meeting. The meeting was held at the county chairman was adopted.

The state Democratic committee approved the decision of the group. Every Democratic elector will now have a voice in choosing the Democratic chairman of this county.

What is so wrong with a rule followed by two-thirds of the counties of this state?

Shaw charges that after his opponents had passed the measure they were fighting for, they started a riot. Whoever heard of a winning team robbing the umpire?

Does this rumpus mean the destruction of the Democratic party? Hardly. It means that now the voters of this county who firmly believe in the humanitarian principles of Jefferson, Jackson and Roosevelt will be able to select a leader fit and able to lead them in turning Lawrence county Democracy around in 1940.

Shaw can't kid anybody about this meeting being called by a disgruntled minority. The 67 committeemen who signed the original petition are from the precincts where 9,000 of the registered Democratic votes of this county are. And so they all who wish, can check the record, we here list their names.

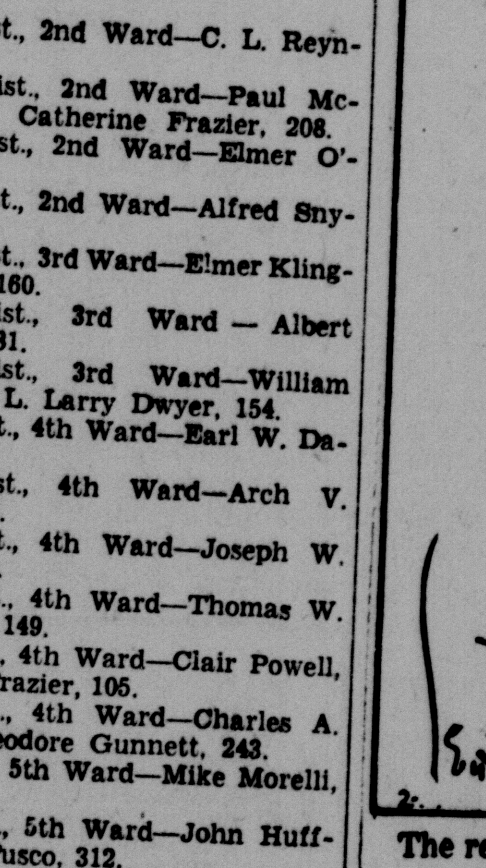

Whereas, the best principles of the Democratic party would be furthered by amending the rules of the Democratic committee to require the popular election of a county chairman by popular vote at a primary, according to law.

New Castle Arrivals Are Fewer In Florida

(By JAMES P. CALDWELL)
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 14.—Among the recent arrivals here from New Castle are Mr. and Mrs. George Robinson, Mrs. G. L. Gibson, Mrs. Earl Bishop, James Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Chapman, J. C. and H. C. Hoon, Ernest Reeves, Mrs. Ralph Friedman, Miss Jean Friedman, Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Mayberry, Mr. and Mrs. John Speer and Mr. and Mrs. Mat Honkonen. From Ellwood City: Miss Frances Barabati, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Longi and Joe Rubino, Jr.

Rev. John Galbraith, a former pastor of Epworth Methodist church in New Castle, is here with Mrs. Galbraith. Rev. Galbraith has a month's leave of absence from his church at Kane, Pa. Mrs. Galbraith will remain until April 1.

Unusual Weather
There have been fewer New Castle people here so far this season, due, no doubt, to unusual weather conditions. While there have been plenty of sunshine, there were cold winds from the north during the greater part of January and part of the time so far in February.

There were three frosts, the first I have seen here in four years. They killed some of the more tender shrubs and flowers, but the more hardy flowers are still blooming. Damage to the citrus crop in this country was not great and has been considerably exaggerated in other sections as it gives a good excuse for raising prices. I have been in several large groves during the past week that were not damaged at all. Oranges which are frozen still remain on the trees for some time and the full extent of the frosts is not yet fully known. The effect on a frosted orange is to dry up the juice, so it becomes pithy on the inside.

Worst Sufferers
Probably the worst sufferers from the cold weather have been the widows and spinsters who come down here in search of husbands. Most of the time it has been too cold to sit on the green benches at night and they are badly crowded in the daytime. But I would not give the impression that all the women are man hunters. Some of them only want to be kissed by the sun. They are generally the ones past 70. There are six or seven women to every man here and competition is keen.

The bathing beaches, too, have been almost deserted. Those who do venture out generally bury themselves in the sand and don't go near the water. It's been a poor season for sight-seeing so far, but the indications now are that it will soon be good swimming weather. The mercury stands at 60 in the shade at 3 o'clock this afternoon but there is a cold north wind and plenty of overcoats and fur coats are seen on the streets. However, in the sun where the wind does not strike, it is quite warm.

Folks who came down this year wearing the only suit of "heavies" they expected to need have been having a hard time. Going to bed on wash-days gets monotonous.

Federal Income Tax In Nutshell

COMPENSATION OF STATE OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES

For all taxable years beginning after December 31, 1938, all officers or employees of states, or political subdivisions thereof, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing, are required to include in gross income, for Federal income-tax purposes, the compensation received by them during the year as such officers or employees.

The liability for filing Federal income-tax returns for 1939 and subsequent years will, therefore, extend to many individuals who previously have not been required to file such returns.

Retired officers and employees of states, and political subdivisions thereof, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing, who received in 1939 pensions or retirement annuities, based on the services rendered by them while in active service as such officers or employees, are required to include such pensions or annuities in gross income for Federal income-tax purposes.

If the pension or annuity is paid in whole or in part from a fund derived from amounts deducted from the compensation of such officer or employee while in active service, the amounts so contributed are considered the "consideration paid" for the pension or annuity. The amount received by the retired officer or employee shall be included in gross income each year to the extent of 3 per cent of the "consideration paid," the balance of the annuity payments being excluded in determining gross income for that year.

When the aggregate of the amounts thus excluded from gross income equals the "consideration paid," the entire amount thereafter received as a pension or annuity must be included in gross income.

These taxpayers are entitled to the same deductions and credits as are other taxpayers explained in the instructions which accompany the income-tax returns, Forms 1040A and 1040, distributed through the offices of the collectors of internal revenue. Dues paid by teachers to professional societies, the price of their subscriptions to educational journals connected with their profession, and traveling expenses, including railroad fares and meals and lodging, incurred in attending teachers' conventions in the United States, if they are not reimbursed for such expenses, are deductible from the compensation received by them as teachers in determining net income for Federal income-tax purposes. Records of such expenditures should be kept to substantiate the deductions claimed.

Campaign expenses and contributions made to political parties or organizations at any time are not deductible from the compensation which an individual receives after his election nor from any income which he may have received prior to his election.

Campaign contributions received by a candidate for a public office are gifts, and not income, so are not required to be included in the gross income for Federal income-tax purposes.
